

Journal of the Senate

SECOND REGULAR SESSION

SEVENTH DAY—MONDAY, JANUARY 17, 2000

The Senate met pursuant to adjournment.

Senator Wiggins in the Chair.

The Reverend Carl Gauck offered the following prayer:

Psalm 90:12 “So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.”

Gracious Lord, You have given us the gift of time so teach us how to use it wisely. As we look over the year ahead of us, help us to set aside generous portions of each week for our families, our deeds of service and especially time with You, our God. Teach us to budget each day so that it may be used efficiently and be fruitful and to this end live life as You would want for us. In Your Holy Name we pray. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was recited.

A quorum being established, the Senate proceeded with its business.

The Journal for Thursday, January 13, 2000, was read and approved.

Senator Maxwell delivered the following message:

Tribute to Dr. Martin Luther King

I rise to give tribute to a man who was one of my childhood heroes - a man who had the courage to share his dream - a man who had the capacity to raise the expectation of a generation - a man who had the ability to instill in his community the courage to overcome.

As a young boy, the son of a sharecropper, I vividly recall sitting in my home, a house which was owned by the man whose land my dad farmed, and watching the evening news every night on our black and white RCA TV as it unveiled a new social conscience as voiced by Dr. Martin Luther King. A conscience, which spoke of his hopes and dreams for the next generation, my generation.

Dr. King, in his speech at the Lincoln Memorial, August 1963, surrounded by over a quarter million Americans, spoke the following words:

"I have a dream that one day...little black boys and black girls will be able to join hands with little white boys and white girls as sisters and brothers."

And that's what's at the heart of all social movements - making sure our children have a better world to live in. Making sure they have opportunities that we could only imagine.

That's why Dr. King and his followers marched on Washington. That's why the women of the suffrage movement gathered in Seneca Falls. And that's why our veterans camped outside of the White House. To make the world a better place for their children.

I know that my two children-Megan and Shannen - are on my mind every time I enter this distinguished chamber and vote or establish an agenda. And I know that everyone here in this room thinks of their families, their communities, and this great state when they vote or make a decision about where we are going.

And this is why we all need to be continuously asking ourselves - have we done all we can to make this a better world for our children, the next generation? Have we done all we can to fulfill Dr. King's vision of a society where our children are judged, not on the color of their skin but the content of their character? This is a question I ask myself every day I enter this chamber. And it's a question we must answer every time we debate our state's future as we face a new decade, a new century, and a new millennium. Are we doing everything we can to make this a better place for our children, the next generation? To keep this dream alive we must do more.

Poverty does not discriminate, hunger knows no bias, homelessness is not prejudice, and to keep Dr. King's dream alive, we must not either. We must do better for all of our children. We need to ensure that all of our children have access to quality health care, that they are allowed to attend safe schools, and that they have the right to be all that they can be, their God given right, their inalienable right to be all they can be.

So today we honor Martin Luther King. Not just for his efforts on behalf of African-Americans, but for all of our nation. Not just for his strides in the area of civil rights. And not just because we lost this man far too early in life. We honor him today because we also honor our children. And because we hope that their future will continue to be one in which children of all colors, races and creeds can come together, hand in hand. Let us work together to raise the expectations of the next generation, as Dr. King did for my generation.
