

JOURNAL OF THE SENATE
NINETY-FIRST GENERAL ASSEMBLY
 OF THE
STATE OF MISSOURI
 FIRST REGULAR SESSION

FIRST DAY—WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 2001

The Senate was called to order at 12:00 noon by Lieutenant Governor Joe Maxwell.

Reverend Carl Gauck offered the following prayer:

Emilie Griffin wrote in her book “The Experience of Prayer”, “The best reason to pray is that God is really there.”

Gracious and Heavenly Father, we thank You for bringing us to a new beginning, in a new millennium and in a new century. You have provided us with a new type of leadership and new Senators and given us opportunities to do things in a new way. As we gather in this honored chamber let us experience Your presence that You may guide us to handle the challenges of a new and uncertain time and to meet the needs of and serve the people of this state more effectively. In Your Holy Name we pray. Amen.

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was recited.

Senator DePasco announced that photographers from KOLR-TV, the Jefferson City News Tribune, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the Associated Press, KRCG-TV, KOMU-TV and the Senate had been given permission to take pictures in the Senate Chamber and gallery today and that guests had been given permission to use flash equipment.

Senator Kenney submitted the following appointments of officers for the temporary organization, which were read:

Secretary of Senate . . . . . Terry L. Spieler
 Sergeant-at-Arms . . . . . Lester Marcum
 Doorkeeper . . . . . Ken Holman

Senator Kenney requested unanimous consent of the Senate that the above named officers be elected as temporary officers until permanent officers are elected, which request was granted.

MESSAGES FROM THE SECRETARY OF STATE

The President laid before the Senate the following communication from the Secretary of State, which was read:

To the Honorable Senate of the 91st General Assembly, First Regular Session, of the State of Missouri:

In compliance with Section 115.525, Revised Statutes of Missouri 1994, I have the honor to lay before you herewith a list of the names of the members of the Senate for the 91st General Assembly (First Regular Session) of the State of Missouri, elected at the General Election held on the 7th day of November, 2000 and a list of the names of the Senators elected at the General Election held on the 3rd day of November, 1998.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I hereunto set my hand and affix the official seal of my office this 2nd day of January, 2001.

/s/ Rebecca McDowell Cook

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 1

BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate of the Ninety-First General Assembly of State of Missouri, that the rules adopted by the Ninetieth General Assembly, as amended, insofar as they are applicable, be adopted as the temporary rules for the control of the deliberations of the Senate until the permanent rules shall have been adopted, with the following modification:

“Rule 103. During the Ninety-First General Assembly, from January 3, 2001 through and to February 1, 2001, and thereafter, unless one political party shall hold eighteen or more seats, the following rules shall apply:

1. There is established the office of Co-Pro Tem. The Co-Pro Tem shall be nominated from the members of the Senate who are not of the same party as the Lieutenant Governor, and shall be elected by the Senate. The Co-Pro Tem shall be authorized the same allowances and staff as is authorized for the President Pro Tem and shall appoint the Co-Chair and the members of his party to all standing committees.

2. The President Pro Tem and the Co-Pro Tem shall assign bills to committee in accordance with Senate rules as they shall mutually agree. If no agreement is reached upon a particular bill, such bill shall be assigned by the Pro Tem or Co-Pro Tem in accordance with Senate rules according to the party of the sponsoring senator or representative.

3. The Parliamentary Committee shall consist of the President Pro Tem, the Co-Pro Tem and the Co-Chairs of the Committee on Judiciary. All points of order shall be referred to the Parliamentary Committee for decision. If no majority is reached on the question, the question shall be referred to the members of the Senate. In the event of the absence of a member, the Co-Chair of the Committee on Civil and Criminal Jurisprudence of the same party as the absent member, shall act. If both members of the same party on the committee are absent, the Co-Chair of the Committee on Civil and Criminal Jurisprudence and the floor leader of the same party shall act.

4. Standing Committees shall be composed of an equal number of Democrats and Republicans not to exceed eight members except that the Committee on Education may have ten members and the Appropriations Committee which may have

The newly elected Senators advanced to the bar and subscribed to the oath of office, which was administered by the Honorable Byron L. Kinder, Circuit Judge, Cole County.

On roll call the following Senators were present:

Present—Senators

Bentley	Bland	Carter	Caskey

twelve members. Bills may be reported do pass by a majority vote of the members present after a quorum has been established. The committee report must be signed by both Co-Chairs.

5. Conference committees shall consist of five members. Three of the members shall be of the same party as the principal sponsor of the bill. The President Pro-Tem and the Co-Pro Tem shall appoint the members of their party; except that, in event a bill has two principal co-sponsors of different political parties, such co-sponsors may agree upon the number to be appointed by the Pro Tem and Co-Pro Tem respectively.

6. Each party caucus shall elect a floor leader. Such floor leaders shall be provided equal staff and budget resources, shall consult and agree upon the conduct of business in the Senate and shall alternate the performance of the functions of a floor leader in the conduct of Senate business as they shall agree.

7. In the event of a conflict between these rules and any other Senate rule, these rules shall prevail.”.

AGREEMENT

The following agreement has been entered into by the members of the Senate and has been approved by the caucuses of both political parties:

1. The attached Rule No. 103 be adopted by the Senate as part of both the temporary and permanent rules of the Senate for the Ninety-First General Assembly.

2. It is agreed by the members of the Senate that the Pro-Tem and the Co-Pro Tem will share the master of ceremony responsibilities at the Inauguration. Senator Quick shall introduce the Governor and Attorney General and Senator Kinder shall introduce the Secretary of State and the Treasurer.

3. In the event that one party shall hold eighteen or more seats after all thirty-four senators have been seated, the President Pro Tem shall resign and an election of President Pro-Tempore shall be held and the above rules shall not apply.

4. The leadership of the Missouri Senate shall be chosen by a majority of the elected senators.

President Pro Tem Quick assumed the dais and addressed the members of the Senate.

Ladies and Gentlemen, distinguished guests, Lt. Governor Maxwell, Judge, friends and family,

It is once again my privilege and pleasure to address the Missouri Senate as we open a new year and new session of the Missouri General Assembly. Let me first introduce my special guests:

My wife Jane

My son Mark, my granddaughter Morgan and her mother Michelle

My daughter Rebecca, my grandson Nathan, granddaughter Marley and grandson Ethan, and

My son Randy and granddaughters Jessica and Amanda.

X X X X X X X

It gives me great pleasure to welcome back my old friends and colleagues...and to be joined by our new colleagues...Senator John Loudon, Senator Michael Gibbons, Senator Chuck Gross and Senator Bill Foster...I know how special this day is for you.

I want to personally congratulate you...and ask my fellow Senators and everyone in the gallery to rise and join me in welcoming these four new members to the Missouri Senate. The trust and responsibility your constituents have placed on you is tremendous. I know I speak for all of us here in welcoming you and offering to help in every possible way in your efforts to serve the citizens that you—and all of us—represent here.

X X X X X X X

Two days before Christmas, as most of you know, my house caught fire. Although there are many interesting things that go through your mind when your house is burning....what I found to be the most interesting is what you save when you only have a few minutes. What are the things important enough for you to pick up, while other things, far more valuable, you leave behind. It's not always the monetary things that you find are close to your heart, it many times is something that has no monetary value at all. As I was thinking about what I was going to say today, I realized that in the Missouri Senate I find myself in the same situation. The things that are close to my heart have no monetary value for me but are extremely important to the citizens of the state. I think we all need to remember during this upcoming session that the issues we work on and fight for need to be the treasures that are close to our hearts and those that we are the most proud of.

These next four years will be my last opportunity to serve in the Missouri Senate (some will be very glad to see this happen). However, this means that in the next four years, I must accomplish as many things as possible in order to guarantee for my children, my grandchildren and all the citizens of Missouri a better life with more opportunities. All of those who know me, know how truly proud and fortunate I feel to serve in the Missouri State Senate. The responsibility to represent 155,000 people is awesome! For this reason, it is so important to me for all the Senators sitting here, old and new, democrats and republicans, to receive the highest grade in "playing and working well with others."

The thing that I have always found incredible is the fact that the Missouri Senate is one of only two chambers in the nation that is not divided by an aisle. In our Chamber, Democrats and Republicans sit side by side. When a Senator rises to speak, a person in the gallery never knows whether they are a democrat or a republican.

November brought one of the closest and most unusual election cycles in the history of our nation and in the history of this state. News reporters, political analysts and historians will spend a tremendous amount of time studying this election and trying to figure out what it all means.

I'm neither a reporter, nor a historian. But as a lawmaker, I want to listen very closely to what the people have said. I believe the election tells us a great deal about those we serve and how they wish to be served.

What can we determine by the closeness of the recent election? That in almost everything we do we will make half the people happy and half the people angry....

But what it really tells me is that the people of Missouri are not only looking for us to work together on behalf of them, but expecting us to work together to solve our upcoming tight budget issues, our transportation problems, our waste in government, our need for healthcare and education improvements among others. Let's not let their vote and message fall on deaf ears.

Because of the closeness and possible even split between Democrats and Republicans, other states will check on us to see how we handle this situation. Let's be sure we do not embarrass ourselves and our state. We are the Show Me State. Let's show ourselves that we can rise to the occasion and make ourselves proud!

Thank you

Co-President Pro Tem Kinder assumed the dais and addressed the members of the Senate.

President Quick, Lieutenant Governor Maxwell, my colleagues in the Senate, distinguished guests, ladies and gentlemen. For me to stand here on this auspicious occasion fills me with an emotion that I hope does not overcome me, but I hope you will understand the emotion that I do feel. No member of my party has stood here for 54 years, since 54 years ago, this week, the same oath was taken by the man who later distinguished himself as Judge M. C. Matthes, of Hillsboro, in Jefferson County. So, it is an historic occasion for that reason among many others. But, I really was not fully appreciative of the power of the moment until I saw this ballet, this minuet, if you will, between the two floorleaders, exercising coequal powers. There was something, I think something almost magic in that, and we've already done better than they've done in some other states under the same circumstances, because a few years back, in Florida, it took them three days to elect officers, when they were tied. So, we've already done better.

Many of you know that I am an avid reader, and in reading a few months back, I came across an Australian Proverb that I had never seen before that I thought appropriate for this occasion, to remind us, as temporary occupants of these offices and public servants. The proverb goes, "Today, a rooster strutting about, tomorrow, a feather duster."

There surely is a great deal of wisdom in that for us all to reflect on, as we scurry about these halls, and get called Senator this and Senator that. We also tend to speak too often of my district, and your district, and our districts. Of course, they're not my district, and they're not your district. In a much more important sense, they are the people's districts, and we are but temporary custodians of these seats. And that leads me to the subject of these inscriptions on the walls of the Capitol, and we see two in this chamber that we're always mindful of during debates and floor action where occasionally eyes drift up to those two fine admonitions. But I want you to know my favorite is contained just outside the rear of the Senate chamber, where it is inscribed in gold, over those magnificent doors out there, "Not to be Served, but to Serve."

Many of you know that last summer, it was my fate, my family's fate to have happen to us, what has happened to other members of the Senate family in recent years, extended family.

I got the call from the Georgia Highway Patrol, on the 1st of July, 2000, six months ago, this past Saturday, that my parents were in a very serious car accident. My father was a fatality in that accident. My mother was injured. My father was two months short of his 83rd birthday, that morning in July, when his life was cut short in that accident. Again, I say in a call, not unfamiliar to many of the families here today. I will never forget the response of the Senate family, that it threw its arms around me in the ensuing days and weeks. Fully, half of the Senate was represented, personally, at either the visitation on Wednesday evening that followed, or the funeral service that Thursday morning, the 6th of July. And, I will also never forget, as a testament to what the Senate family is, and what it means, that on the plane the Senate organized originating here in Jefferson City, but mainly carrying our colleagues from the western side of the state, on that plane, were five Democrats, and two Republicans, emphasizing the Senator from the 17th's point, about how we don't divide by parties in this chamber, but each man and each woman is a Senator.

Now, I mention my father on the heels of that admonition, not to be served, but to serve, because I want to tell you a little bit about him, as how I think exemplifies that credo.

My father, unlike his third son, was no man of words. He was apolitical, nonpolitical. He had little use for government. He was no politician. He was a man of science, a graduate of one of our great universities, Washington University, both undergraduate and medical school, a medical doctor at the age of 23, before going off to service with the successor unit to the Flying Tigers in World War II, and then coming back and getting his speciality training, avoiding other more remunerative occupations in medicine that he could have chosen, that were his for the choosing, for the less remunerative compensation of the life of a pediatrician, which meant 80 and 90 and 100 hour weeks. He was the only board certified pediatrician between St. Louis and Memphis in those days of the baby boom. My father practiced that way in Cape Girardeau for 49 years, before closing his office four years ago this month, as he was closing in on 80 years old, but not to retire fully. But to go then to the county health unit in the poorest of South Cape Girardeau, there to take care of what the bureaucrats called an exclusively Medicaid population, continuing working into, through, and beyond into the ninth decade of his life, not to be served, but to serve. And, his example, is one that is uppermost in my mind today.

Now, we have many issues that we will obsess over, I don't doubt, this session. One is transportation, and I note that MoDot, the Commission, was meeting this morning down the street, taking momentous action on the bond money and disbursing proceeds of how we're going to move ahead in transportation in this state. I note that transportation was an issue in the late gubernatorial election without, it seems to me, a clear resolution one way or another. And in one of my conversations with the Governor-elect, following the election, this was our face-to-face meeting the week after the election, I mentioned it to him and he said, he will be coming forward with a proposal, and I eagerly await that, so that we can debate it on this floor, and I look forward to working with all of you on that.

Likewise, on health care issues, and prescription drugs, another issue that was fought out in the Governor's election, and I fully expect that we will be seeing many proposals in this session.

Now, a word about the budget, which we are told will be tight this year. We've had seven or eight straight years in which there was no question we would have a capital improvement bill, but such were the coffers overflowing to that extent, that we could always have a capital improvement bill, even way over $100 million, for each of the last seven or eight years. That may very well not be the case we're told by the budgetary planners this year, and I know Governor-elect Holden has been hard at work on the budgetary issues that face him. But in the midst of this, our task has been complicated more by the ruling of Cole County Circuit Court that is now in the Supreme Court on the Hancock Amendment issues, saying we owe $244 million in Hancock refunds. And I note that there have been some in elected office, and some in appointive office in our state government who have decried this and said that it's a terrible thing that we have the Hancock Amendment and that the people who brought suit under it are to be deplored and we're to somehow look upon them with disdain. I think it's time that we stop decrying those citizens, among us, those Missourians among us, who find that they must bring resort to the legal process to enforce the Constitution, and I think we ought to live by the Constitution and all its articles and amendments.

And, a word about tobacco issues that face us. Ideas on how to spend the tobacco money surely are as numerous as members of the House and Senate. They're as common as blackberries in July, and I don't stand before you to assert my ideas on how to spend that money. I will trust, as I will with these budget issues to the two chairmen of the Appropriations Committee, in great measure, who I expect to be the Senator from the 13th, and the Senator from Laclede, as veterans of that process, and they can help guide us through these many difficult issues. But I do commend to you in the true spirit of bipartisanship the letter authored by the Senator from the 13th, veteran budgetman that he is, dated December 7th, in which he identified for us a problem we face with this initiative petition that is in the field.

The initiative petition that has been filed and for which we don't doubt will get the signatures, presents great problems, it seems to me, as people who have taken the oath of office that we have just taken. It is hard to view it as anything other than a direct and sweeping attack on the constitutional powers of the members of the House and Senate to appropriate money and write the budget, and I ask you all to reflect on it as we consider the issues before us. That is something that all Missourians are going to have to think about before they take the extraordinary step of writing these percentages into the constitution the way it has been proposed.

Now, we hear much today about how we are evenly divided, as a country, and indeed, we have an even U. S. Senate, at 50-50. We have a very close margin, historically close, in the United States House. We have just finished one of the closest Presidential elections ever in American history, and the observer will note that much the same is true in the great state of Missouri. We just finished the third closest Governor's election in a century. We have a very close margin in the state House of Representatives, as we had the last two years, and we have a near tie in the Missouri Senate.

What I want to stress here is that although we Americans and we Missourians are very nearly evenly divided, the encouraging thing is that we are not deeply divided. The distinction is crucial. Here is how one writer put it recently. "Many Americans and Missourians have a favorite party and a deeply held belief, and therefore, may find it hard to vote for the other party. However, most Americans do not find themselves actually alienated from their fellow Americans or truly fearful if the other party wins power. Unlike Bosnia or Northern Ireland, competing for power in the U.S. remains largely a debate between people who can work together once the election is over. I do most heartily commend that observation to you, and isn't that our task, to work together once the election is over?"

I should like to introduce my special guests, my niece, Louisa Kinder is here with us today--my mother's oldest grandchild. And by the grace of God, over the weekend, Mom felt good enough to come--my mother, Mary Frances Hunter Kinder is here with us, as well.

In closing, I ask that we all remember that Australian Proverb, "Today a rooster strutting about, tomorrow a feather duster." And, we also remember that Capitol inscription outside our chamber, "Not to be served, but to serve."

President Maxwell resumed the Chair.

Senator Quick nominated Terry L. Spieler for Secretary of the Senate. Senator Kinder seconded the nomination.
