GOVERNOR HOLDEN’S INAUGURAL SPEECH

January 8, 2001

Today we observe the beginning of a new century. But more importantly, we bear witness to the beginning of a new vision: one bright future, one Missouri.

Only three short months ago, Missourians stood together with the Carnahan and Sifford families in their hour of need. The power of our shared grief made us all stronger.

Thank you, Jean, for the grace you have shown during these difficult days. You have made all of us proud.

Through these challenging times, we have supported our new Governor as he carried out his duties with honor and dignity. His compassion and good humor have lifted our spirits. Thank you, Governor Wilson, for your leadership.

As we reflect on these events, we realize that sometimes it’s in the worst of times that we discover the best in ourselves. We came together and moved Missouri forward.

That same power that brought us forward in sorrow can now bring us forward in success. The power of shared common goals can break down any walls that separate us, whether those walls are constructed from personal ideology, special interests, or regional concerns.

The dawn of this new day brings new hopes and new beginnings. Today our dawn has come...the awakening of a new century and a better Missouri.

Our past sunsets have brought us a multitude of gifts. We have unlimited resources—a central location, two international cities, two magnificent rivers, rich farmland, an evolving life sciences corridor, and one of the most talented and productive workforces in the world. These resources and the excellent leadership of the past eight years have carried us far.

Missourians are safer, healthier, and better educated than at any time in our history.

But we cannot...we must not...rest on these accomplishments. Our prosperous past only holds meaning for Missouri if we fulfill our potential for a glorious future.

As we begin this first administration of a new century, I call on all Missourians to reach new heights. Do we have the will? Will we have the courage? Can we summon the imagination to lead?

Missourians of the past have provided the example for us to follow. We live in a state that has produced pioneers such as Harry Truman, George Washington Carver, and Phoebe Apperson Hearst. A state that built the first mile of interstate highway and established the nation’s first kindergarten. A state that educated a young woman named Linda Godwin in rural Missouri and sent her into space.

Our history has prepared us...Almighty God has blessed us...with the opportunity to make a difference.

In the words of the famous poet Robert Frost, it is time Missouri took “the road less traveled by” and that will make “all the difference” for our future generations.

With this shining new century, let us think anew. Let us dream anew. Let us build anew.

The ideas, principles, and progress of our past architects have provided a solid foundation. Now we must build a Missouri that we will be proud to pass on to the generations to come. One Missouri that supports the most vulnerable citizens—our young, our poor, our sick, and our elderly. One Missouri that offers the opportunities for our Missouri families and businesses to grow. One Missouri that gives all our citizens the chance to succeed.

Our one Missouri will find its character in our resolve to foster healthy bodies, strong minds, and respect for each other...

its strength in our commitment to giving every child the best possible education...

its prosperity in fostering a well-trained and highly skilled work force.

Our one Missouri will find new prominence in the world marketplace by developing a broader transportation system that is second to none.

Our one Missouri will preserve its future for our families by protecting the environment.

However, the greatest barrier we have to building one Missouri is ourselves. We can no longer think in terms of urban vs. rural, black vs. white, Democrat vs. Republican, St. Louis vs. Kansas City, or the countless other interests that seek to divide us. We must come together to find common ground.

It is time Kansas City and St. Louis realize they live in the same state. These two urban titans must work together to make Missouri competitive in the global marketplace of a new century.

It is time our rural communities and urban centers work together for the good of all our citizens. It is time we judge people by the "content of their character," not by "the color of their skin."

It is time we respect all people—paying respect to the integrity of their views, even if we disagree with the substance of their policies. For we are one Missouri—one bright future.

One of my personal heroes in public service, Robert Kennedy, was fond of quoting English writer George Bernard Shaw, who said: "Some men see things as they are and ask why. I dream things that never were and ask why not."

Over the next four years, this administration will continue to dream of those possibilities and dare to ask "why not." We will set our sights on what can be, not what has been.

This administration will lead by example, guided by the principles instilled in me by my parents, my teachers, my heroes, and my family.

Those principles taught me that this administration should never be about any one person—it is about all of us. As a young boy growing up on a farm in southern Missouri, I had parents I love and respect more than they will ever realize.

They believed each generation bears a responsibility to both the generation past and the generation to come. So to our seniors and our children, let me say: my administration will work for you.

As a student who started in a one-room schoolhouse and became the first in my family to graduate from a state university, I was fortunate to learn at the hands of excellent teachers who unlocked doors to opportunity with the knowledge they gave me. Our second son is named for one of those teachers. My administration values those teachers and the future minds they will mold. My administration is for them.

As a college student inspired by heroes such as Robert

Kennedy, who sacrificed his life on behalf of a better life for others, I dedicated my life to public service. My administration is for all public servants who believe they can make a difference.

As a partner to my wife Lori and father to our sons, Robert and John D., I have found that nothing is more important than shaping a world where families can share bonds of love and success. To our Missouri families, let me say: we are families who share common backgrounds and uncommon opportunities.

And I will use that knowledge and understanding we have been given to improve Missouri for all families. My administration is for you.

The goal of my administration is to unite all Missourians in forging a bright future that holds maximum opportunities for each of us. I understand your concerns, and I share your aspirations.

I was born in Kansas City, raised on a farm in south central Missouri near a town called Birch Tree, represented Springfield in the Missouri General Assembly, worked in St. Louis, and am glad to be able to say that for the next four years we can continue to call Jefferson City our home.

Yet no matter where I have lived or worked, no matter what the regional interests or issues, I have seen one common conviction that all Missourians share: a faith in our capacity to do better.

This optimism and determination have brought us far in the past, and I believe they can propel us to greatness in the future. The world witnessed such optimism and determination from Great Britain during World War II. At that time, when this island nation was fighting alone to keep freedom alive, the British people were inspired by the new leadership of Sir Winston Churchill. As he stepped forward to assume the role of Prime Minister, Sir Winston said: "I felt as if I were walking with destiny and that all my past life had been but a preparation for this hour."

History holds many lessons, and this chapter certainly sends a powerful message to us today. If unity of the human spirit can lift a people to triumph in a time of such turmoil, just think...just think what we can accomplish if our hands, our hearts, and our minds are joined in this time of unparalleled opportunity.

Our past has prepared us for this hour, and from this day forward, we will direct its destiny. We have the vision and the passion to make this our "finest hour," as we embark on a journey of opportunities. Let us take that journey together. With your help and with God as our compass...let us meet the responsibilities that lie ahead.

Let us walk confidently into the 21st century and make it Missouri's century. Let our legacy be one bright future—one Missouri.

Thank you.

The Statewide Inaugural Choir sang.

The Benediction was pronounced by Rabbi Susan Talve, Central Reform Congregation, St. Louis, Missouri.

The audience remained standing, and Governor Holden was escorted from the platform by the Legislative Inaugural Committee.

Co-President Pro Tem of the Senate, Senator Peter D. Kinder, adjourned the Joint Session of the 91st General Assembly.

On motion of Co-President Pro Tem Kinder, the Joint Assembly dissolved and the Senators returned to the Chamber where they were called to order by President Maxwell.

(Attachment A)

REORGANIZATION PLAN
GENERAL BACKGROUND

This plan would rename the current Missouri Department of Health to the Missouri Department of Health and Senior Services and incorporate the Division of Aging currently located within the Department of Social Services into the renamed department.

The Missouri Department of Health is responsible for protecting and promoting the health of the population of Missouri. This is carried out through the assessment of the population's health, identification of health threats and needs, development of policies and priorities, and the assurance of appropriate responses. We implement these core public health functions through collaborative relationships with public and private entities, communities and citizens.

The Division of Aging currently located in the Missouri Department of Social Services is charged with promoting, maintaining, improving, and protecting the quality of life and quality of care for Missouri's older adults and persons with disabilities so they may live as independently as possible with dignity and respect.

SPECIFIC DEPARTMENT STRUCTURE

The reorganized Department of Health and Senior Services will be directed by a Department Director who will have a Chief Operating Officer and two Deputy Directors that report directly to the Director. The Director through the Chief Operating Officer and these two deputies will be responsible for the management of the Department and administration of its programs and services. This includes daily operations and Departmental functions such as those listed below.

The Chief Operating Officer will support and provide oversight for the activities of:

- Operational Offices: Personnel, Legal, Governmental Policy, Public Information, Training and Professional Development, Women's Health, Minority Health, Epidemiology, Emergency Response/Terrorism
- Division of Administration: Fiscal, Administrative and General Services support to all department units
- Center for Community Development and Health Care Access: Community development and enhancement of health care access
- Center for Health Information Management and Evaluation: Statistical support and health care assurance activities, information technology, technology research and development

A Deputy Director will support and provide oversight for the activities of the Division of Senior Services and the Division of Health Standards and Licensure.

- Division of Senior Services: Home and community services program and program of immediate assistance which provides support for older persons and persons with disabilities between the ages of 18 and 59, all of whom live at home. In addition, assistance for persons who encounter abuse, neglect or exploitation.
- Division of Health Standards and Licensure: Long term care facilities, health facility regulation, child care licensure, emergency medical services, controlled substance registration, and other institutional programs

A Deputy Director will support and provide oversight for the activities of the health and public health functions of the Department of Health and Senior Services.

- Center for Local Public Health Services: Local public health system support
- Division of Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion: Combats the major causes of premature death, illness, disability and medical costs
- Division of Environmental Health and Communicable Disease Prevention: Investigation of cause, origin, and method of transmission of communicable diseases and diseases caused by environmental hazards
- Division of Maternal Child and Family Health: Promotes optimal health by programs designed to meet the health care needs of families
- Division of Nutritional Health and Services: Nutritional services and support, population-based surveillance to determine the nutritional status of all Missourians

OTHER RELATED ISSUES

In addition, the following change will occur by legislation and transfer.

- Using the same statutory model as the Board of Health, a Board of Senior Services will be created. Both Boards will advise the Director of the Department of Health and Senior Services on issues relating to their respective areas of expertise.

A Memorandum of Understanding will be developed between the current Department of Health and the Department of Social Services and carried forward to the renamed Department of Health and Senior Services and the Department of Social Services that will provide guidance for the smooth transition and maintenance of specific issues that impact staff and services of both departments.

These Memorandums will include, but not be limited to, issues relating to accounting, chain of command for interim reporting, contracts, data processing, FY02 budget to be transferred, if passed, grants, hiring, legal services, office space (including leasing, utilities, telecommunications, etc.), payroll, personnel and office resources, purchasing, SAM II, state cars, any collective bargaining agreements, vacancy management and warehousing issues.
