A Tribute To Veterans

Many times our pace of life clouds our appreciation of America's many blessings. Juggling the responsibilities of family, work and other activities can be all consuming. I trust that you can join me in a special day of remembrance, prayer and thanksgiving for our Veterans, November 11.

We truly are a blessed nation and have been from our founding. The brave and bold who led the charge for a United States of America understood the price of freedom. They were confident that this new republic would stand the test of time, but realized that it would not come without sacrifice.

These same founders would be pleased today to say thank you to the many who have preserved the United States of America. Young and old alike who stepped forward in a time of need and answered America's call to defend freedom. A call to liberate and not to take. A call to risk their lives for something greater. A call to not back down in the face of impossible odds.

To these men and women we say thank you. We will remember your sacrifices and we will pray for your families. We are forever indebted to your faithful service that allows us to continue to say God Bless the U.S.A.
