Intern Positions Open in Senator Stouffer’s Office

Before long, January will be here, and my staff will have to answer a constantly ringing phone, attend day-long meetings and file urgent press releases. We cannot do it alone. I would like to invite young adults throughout the 21st District to apply for internships with my Capitol office.

Internships are an excellent way for college students to gain important experience in a high-paced environment. For anyone looking to enter a career in politics, communications, agriculture, or any other field, Capitol internships are an excellent way to learn. They look good on a resume, too.

For young people interested in some of the issues we debate in the Senate, such as agriculture, personal property rights, business development, or social-welfare policy, there is no better way to learn the ins and outs of these very important subjects. If you have an opinion or a passion about any issue, we want you on our team. We know a thing or two about opinions.

We are looking for both full- and part-time interns. I also want to encourage high-school seniors serve as interns in our office for a day or week. Anyone interested will be able to fill out an application at www.senate.mo.gov/stouffer/intern. Although this site is not yet on the Web, we will have it up as soon as possible. Prospective interns are also welcome to come by our Jefferson City office, Room 332, and visit with us. The special session is expected to begin September 6, and the veto session will begin September 14, which present a great opportunity to stop by and see the Senate in action and if this office is a good fit for you. I ask you to please call ahead if you would like to stop by during that time so we can give you the best interaction with the Senate as possible.

I encourage all young people in the 21st District to apply for these internship positions. I cannot stress to you enough how important experience like this is to your future career. Thank you, and I look forward to hearing from you.

If you have any questions regarding this or any other matter, or would like to receive these weekly reports electronically, please call our office toll free at (866) 768-3987 or e-mail bstouffer@senate.mo.gov.
