

The Patient Advocate Foundation

The Patient Advocate Foundation (PAF) can provide free professional assistance to those struggling with difficult health-care issues, such as serious or life-threatening diseases.

PAF can provide personal intervention, and if necessary, will serve as an active liaison between a patient and insurer, employer, and/or creditors to help resolve coverage issues, job retention, and/or debt crisis matters related to diagnosis and treatment. This is done by assigning a professional case manager, at no cost to the patient.

PAF can help with:

- Resolving insurance coverage disputes
- Employment problems related to health issues
- Information requests on all types of health issues
- Accessing clinical trials
- Negotiating access to drugs, chemotherapy, medical devices
- Negotiating pre-authorization approvals, or billing disputes

For those simply looking for information, the Foundation has access to many resources.

The Foundation was established by cancer survivors Nancy Davenport-Ennis and her husband, Jack. Help is available in all 50 states. PAF handled more than 4.1 million contacts from Americans in 2005.

PAF also has a Co-Pay Relief Assistance Program to provide co-payment assistance to those who have insurance but cannot afford the co-pays for their medications. A call counselor will help determine if a person is eligible and can assist them.
