Jefferson City, MO – A new online office sponsored by Sen. Timothy P. Green (D-Spanish Lake) will help working men and women cut through red tape and find the government resources they need when they need them.

The new site – www.missourihelp.com/green/index.html – includes instant access to health care resources, labor and work-force issues and much more.

“My new online office is specifically tailored for working Missourians who have enough to do day to day without having to wade through bureaucratic red tape when they need government services,” Sen. Green said. “If people need to file for unemployment insurance or look up particular labor laws or find out how to get new license plates, they can do so from this site.”

The new online office provides access to state and federal work place, health care and education resources. It also includes information about the 13th District and access to Sen. Green's legislation and committee assignments.
