“Rarely do the people have direct access to a wide variety of state agencies in one evening,” said Sen. Green. “These meetings are opportunities for me to listen to my constituents and for the public to learn about the various state services provided by their tax dollars.”

Representatives from the Missouri Attorney General’s Consumer Protection Division, the Missouri Department of Social Services, Missouri Department of Revenue, and the Missouri Public Service Commission, which regulates utilities, plan to attend the March 15th meeting.

“The two previous town hall meetings have been a success and I would like to thank the executive agencies for having representatives on hand to answer numerous questions and solve constituents’ problems,” said Sen. Green. “These meetings are tremendous information resources as the agencies provide handouts that contain both helpful guidance and an abundance of state government contacts where constituents can get more help.”

“Constituents are encouraged to attend and voice their concerns and ideas,” said Sen. Green. “These town hall meetings will encourage discussion among a local audience, community leaders, and elected officials.”

The third town hall meeting will be held on Thursday, March 15th at the James J. Egan Center Theater, One James J. Egan Dr. Sen. Green will be joined by Missouri State Representative Bruce Darrough, Blackjack Mayor Norman McCourt and Florissant Mayor Robert Lowery.
