FISCAL ANALYSIS

ASSUMPTION

Officials from the Department of Social Services - Research & Evaluation Division (DOS) state there is no change to the procedures in Chapter 211, RSMo, which deal with juvenile court, the Division of Family Services, and the Division of Youth Services custody. As a result, DOS officials state they do not believe the proposed legislation will fiscally impact their organization.

Officials from the Office of State Courts Administrator (CTS) stated the proposed legislation would revise the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act, replacing current law with new language. The CTS officials state that because of problems with interpretation of this bill, and the ramifications of possible adoption by Missouri only, and the subsequent differences between Missouri law and that of other states, they are unable to provide a cost estimate at this time. The CTS officials added that the language of the statute would open these cases up to consideration of visitation issues. This could result in a significant workload increase for the courts and a significant fiscal impact. The CTS officials state they have no way of estimating the impact at this time.

Officials from the Office of Prosecution Services (OPS) and the State Public Defender (SPD) assumed the proposed legislation will not fiscally impact their organizations.

Oversight assumes that the duties for the court system will increase should this proposal be enacted. The fiscal impact cannot be exactly determined based on the information supplied by the CTS. However, Oversight assumes the unknown cost of this proposal is expected to be in excess of $100,000 annually. This unknown effect is chargeable to the General Revenue Fund.

The proposal would make other various changes in the child custody statutes.

The proposal contains a severability clause.

This legislation is not federally mandated, would not duplicate any other program and would not require additional capital improvements or rental space.
