Missouri Legislature's 2013 Veto Session

Several pieces of legislation were brought up for consideration during the 2013 veto session. The following bills received the necessary constitutional two-thirds majority vote during veto session, overriding the governor's objections. These bills have now become law in the state of Missouri:

- Senate Bill 9 – Modifies provisions relating to agriculture.
- Senate Bill 110 – Establishes procedures to follow in child custody and visitation cases for military personnel.
- Senate Bill 129 – Establishes the Volunteer Health Services Act to allow for licensed health care professionals to provide volunteer services for a sponsoring organization.
- Senate Bill 170 – Allows members of public governmental bodies to cast roll call votes in a meeting if the member is participating via videoconferencing.
- House Bill 19 – Provides supplemental funding for major additions and renovations, new structures, and land improvements or acquisitions ($1 million for reconstruction of Pike-Lincoln Technical Center).
- House Bill 278 – Prohibits any state or local government entity, including public buildings, parks and schools, from banning or restricting the practice, mention, celebration or discussion of a federal holiday.
- House Bill 329 – Changes the laws regarding financial institutions, increase the maximum fee from 5 to 10 percent on installment loans.
- House Bill 339 – Requires motorists to forfeit their recovery of noneconomic damages under certain circumstances.
- House Bill 650 – Changes laws relating to the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, including capping punitive damages assessed in health-related claims against underground mining operations.
- House Bill 1035 – Omnibus political subdivision measure that, among other provisions, creates the "Rebuild Damaged Infrastructure Program" to provide funding for the reconstruction, replacement, or renovation of or repair to any infrastructure damaged by a presidentially declared natural disaster in Missouri.

Sending Quality Bills to the Governor's Desk

Although a number of pieces of good legislation did not pass this session, with the help of my staff and colleagues on both sides of the aisle, we delivered three of my top priorities to the governor's desk. These bills include the Urban Agriculture Act (passed in HB 542), the Solar Protection Act (passed in HB 142), and the establishment of the World War I Memorial Trust Fund (passed in SB 252).

The Urban Agriculture Act

House Bill 542 modifies provisions relating to agriculture, and also contains the Missouri Urban Agriculture Act. This measure enables Missouri municipalities to adopt "Urban Agriculture Zone" (UAZ) ordinances. This zoning applies to blighted areas of our cities and creates a framework to allow entrepreneurs to use economic incentives to make urban agriculture financially viable. Specifically, it allows for wholesale water costs (where applicable) and 25 years of property tax abatement. The measure also allows for local sales taxes collected within UAZs to fund agriculture-related projects within the school district in its vicinity.

The Solar Protection Act

House Bill 142 modifies provisions relating to utilities and contains the Missouri Solar Protection Act. This language allows for a gradual phase-out of the $2.00/watt solar rebate through 2020, while ensuring that rebates are used by independent solar installers for Missouri homes and businesses and not by investor-owned utilities for industrial grade systems. This language helps preserve the intent of the 2008 Proposition C initiative petition that created the solar installation industry in our state. This legislation also allows for a property tax exemption for solar systems, similar to legislation in 38 other states.

World War I Memorial Trust Fund

Senate Bill 252 modifies provisions relating to the Department of Revenue, including provisions that prohibit the department from retaining copies of source documents used to obtain driver's licenses. It also contains language to establish the World War I Memorial Trust Fund. Money in this fund will be made on a voluntary donation basis when citizens renew their license plates. Additionally, we were able to secure $200,000 for the Liberty Memorial in the state budget.

There is always work to be done, but passing these bills represents an opportunity to achieve a higher quality of life for Missouri citizens. Energy and food security will be pillars of the 21st century economy as we work toward ecological sustainability. In addition, honoring the sacrifice of previous generations through the World War I Memorial in Kansas City reminds us that liberty is not free, but costs borne by the names of men and women whom adorn the memorial walls.

How to Retrieve Your Unclaimed Property

I encourage you to visit the Missouri State Treasurer's office to see if you have unclaimed property registered in our state. The treasurer's office is holding more than $750 million in unclaimed assets in more than 4.4 million owner accounts. The average return is $300 and one in 10 Missourians has unclaimed property. Here are steps you can take to claim your assets:

- Visit the Missouri State Treasurer's website for unclaimed property at: www.ShowMeMoney.com, where you can file a paperless claim.
- On the Unclaimed Property website, you can search the database by your name (follow the directions on the website). You can also enter your claim number or holder ID, and find out where your property came from.
- You can sign up for email notifications to monitor unclaimed property related to your name.

Supporting Early Childhood Education

One of my top priorities is advocating for better access to early childhood education programs. I had the pleasure of co-sponsoring SB 133, which would have allowed school districts and charter schools to receive state aid for children ages 3 to 5 who are eligible for free and reduced lunch and are participating in a district-operated pre-kindergarten program. The bill received debate in the Senate, but ultimately did not reach the governor's desk.

While I will continue to advocate for legislation such as SB 133, I am pleased to announce funding for early child learning opportunities in Kansas City. With the governor's assistance, $480,000 through the state's Neighborhood Assistance Program (NAP), Woodland Elementary School will be renovated and reopen as Woodland Early Learning Community School. The renovated facility will serve 320 children. Also qualifying for $1 million in NAP funding is a partnership of the Emmanuel Family and Child Development Center, KC Public Schools and Swope Community Builders for the construction of a 28,800 square foot early childhood education facility.

I will continue to advocate for quality early education in Missouri.
